Dr. McNally suggested Melania has had a brow lift and possible eyelid surgery.

"These changes are suggestive of a brow lift and likely blepharoplasty although the excess skin may have been addressed with laser treatment. Pricing for these treatments is highly provider dependent, but the total cost of all three treatments could have been north of $30,000," he explained.

Back in 2011, Melania Trump told Allure that she did not have any plastic surgery done, and would "never" get anything done. Article continues below

"No. I don't get any Botox — even though it's been reported elsewhere that I've had Botox done," she told Allure. "I'd never do anything on my face or my body."
