

Lauren Sanchez suffers cosmetic faux-pas as she's urged to 'correct it'

By Scarlett O'Toole, 2025-10-17

Lauren Sanchez commanded attention at the glitzy event

Lauren Sanchez put on a busty display as she attended a star-studded dinner without her husband Jeff Bezos, who she married this summer in Venice.

The 55-year-old was one of the guests at the Caring for Women dinner hosted by the Kering Foundation in New York City. Lauren commanded attention as she wore a figure-hugging yellow dress.

The strapless gown featured a corset bodice which highlighted Lauren's hourglass silhouette. However, some were distracted by Lauren's pout, which seemed extra plump. It comes after Lauren caused concern with a worrying social media post on her 'turbulent' year despite her lavish wedding.

Side Sleepers Get Achy Shoulders, Few Know This "Side Sleeper" Trick

Doctor reveals this pillow trick that eliminates shoulder pain for side sleepers.

Learn More

- Taylor Swift sparks concern as fans spot worrying detail in new series
- Meghan Markle's six-word blow to Prince Harry on 'uneasy' outing decoded by lip reader

Plastic surgeon Dr Sean McNally commented on Lauren's lips, suggesting to The Express US, "She's certainly had some issues with migration of her lip filler."

However, he admitted the "severity of this issue varies from picture to picture."

Some fans were distracted

Trends Now

Ad

A wife caused a scandal in Columbus after discovering her husband's affair

The "young mistress" turned out to be a 55-year-old woman

Learn More

McNally continued, "While some injectors' personal taste for lips includes significant filling of the white roll (the portion of the unpigmented skin nearest to the red part) most do not.

"I think that most of the time her filler is done well, but there are photos in which migration has certainly been an issue for her.

Explaining exactly what filler migration is, McNally told us it's "filler that was once appropriately placed and has shifted a bit over time."

While some fans might think Lauren's wealth makes her exempt from the risk of filler migration, McNally suggested otherwise, telling us, "This can happen to anyone regardless of their tax bracket. The big thing is to note when it's occurring and work to correct it."